

MISSION + CODE OF ETHICS

MISSION:

Understanding that all of us are blessed with unique God-given talents, CURA Brazil brings together volunteers - healthcare and non-medical - from Brazil, the United States and other countries. We aim to serve the medical, psychological and spiritual needs of all who seek our care.

CODE OF ETHICS:

Due to its mission CURA Brazil has adopted a code of ethics to guide its board members, participants and volunteers in their conduct while acting on behalf of CURA Brazil. The code of ethics contains information reflecting the nature of behavior CURA Brazil expects during the mission's campaign and post-campaign trip. This is an effort by the organization of CURA Brazil to create and maintain a standard of quality which gives ethical conduct the highest priority. This code will be updated and/or reviewed periodically.

BOARD MEMBERS, PARTICIPANTS AND VOLUNTEERS SHALL:

1. Make an effort to understand, respect and support participants, volunteers and patients from other cultures.
2. Contribute to the organization's mission.
3. Contribute to the organizational culture of CURA which respects the individual contributions of the members, participants and leadership.
4. Provide credible leadership to the mission and organization's work and goals without bias.
5. Provide professional and credible care without bias.
6. Uphold your specialty's code of ethics and oath.
7. Be accountable for adhering to this code of ethics.
8. Honor commitments and promises to the best of your ability.
9. Honor and acknowledge contributions and talents from other individuals, organizations, and governments which help facilitate our goals and mission.
10. Act and behave in a positive light which upholds and promotes the efforts of the mission and organization.
11. Meet and maintain the level of professional excellence required by the Brazilian governmental agencies as well as your home country's governing agencies.

COMPLIANCE, MONITORING AND REPORTING:

The CURA Brazil Board of Directors is responsible for communicating this code of ethics to all volunteers and participants, and for ensuring its adherence at all times.
